

Twin Valley MS/HS LIBRARY

Web Resources

Twitter is in the news everyday now. Do you have an account? Accounts are free and easy to set up. Click on the links below to get started.

Twitter Sign Up Page

Getting Started with Twitter

New User FAQ

100 Ways to Use Twitter in Education

Tweet an Expert this list will get you started:    Experts in Education

Also, check hashtags (#) such as #historian # geologist or #mathematician

Once you have your twitter handle be sure to follow tvmhsvt.

Tweet Anatomy 101

In The Library Now

The 2017 John Newbery Medal for the most outstanding contribution to children's literature was awarded to, "The Girl Who Drank the Moon," written by Kelly Barnhill.

Luna, whose magical abilities are emerging, was raised in the forest by a witch, a swamp monster, and a dragon, but when a young man from the Protectorate is determined to kill the witch, Luna must use her magic to protect her family.

Dessen. Some of the titles in the TVMHS Library are: "Along for the Ride," "How to Deal," "The Moon and More," "That Summer" and several others.

The 2017 Margaret A. Edwards Award for lifetime achievement in writing for young adults was awarded to Sarah

In The Library

Make & Take

Mondays

@ 7:30

Be Creative

